Agency: U.S. Agency for International Development
Organization: Bureau for Global Health, Office of Population and Reproductive Health, Service Delivery Improvement Division (GH/PRH/SDI)
Location of Position: Washington, DC
Open Period: July 16, 2021 to August 13, 2021
Appointment Type: This is an excepted service, time-limited appointment that is not-to-exceed five years
Salary: (USD) $116,786 - $171,504 (annually, with locality)

Description of the Bureau: USAID's Bureau for Global Health supports health programs in partner countries, advances research and innovation in areas relevant to overall Agency health objectives, and transfers new technologies through its own programmatic work, coordination with other donors, and a portfolio of grants. Global health is a global good with consequences that not only affect the people of developing nations, but also directly affect the interests of American citizens.

Description of Office: The Office of Population and Reproductive Health (PRH) within the Bureau for Global Health (GH) is the locus for programs that directly foster and promote expanded access to high-quality voluntary family planning and reproductive health (FP/RH) information and services to reduce unintended pregnancy and promote healthy reproductive behaviors in developing countries. Within PRH, the Service Delivery Improvement Division (SDI) develops and applies innovative strategies across public, private, and community sectors that improve the performance of individuals, organizations, and systems for the sustainable delivery of quality FP/RH services.

Description of Position: The incumbent serves as a Health Development Officer (Senior Technical Advisor) in the Service Delivery Improvement (SDI) Division, PRH Office, in the GH Bureau. The incumbent serves as senior advisor and technical authority on cross-sectoral issues related to family planning and reproductive health (FP/RH), vital to the achievement of USAID's goal of expanding access to high-quality voluntary FP/RH information, products and services. These programs support global Agency initiatives such as Family Planning 2030 (FP2030), Preventing Child and Maternal Deaths (PCMD), and an AIDS Free Generation (AFG). The incumbent represents the Agency with a range of development stakeholders. Work is performed primarily within PRH, but the incumbent is expected to participate in assignments that cross organizational lines. The incumbent may serve as a Contract/Agreement Officer's Representative (COR/AOR). This position reports to the SDI Division Chief.

Description of Key Duties: The incumbent would provide key leadership in FP/RH cross-sectoral issues such as youth, health systems strengthening and FP/HIV integration for FP/RH service delivery. The position would serve as senior advisor and technical authority on FP/RH cross sectoral approaches, which are vital to the achievement of USAID's goal of expanding access to high-quality FP/RH services to reduce unintended pregnancy and promote healthy reproductive behaviors in developing countries. The position would coordinate between GH/PRH and regional and pillar Bureau colleagues in strategic planning, analysis, design, implementation, research, and evaluation of FP/RH programs including, but not limited to, integration of FP/RH with adolescents and youth, HIV and COVID-19 programming. This position would ensure that FP/RH cross-sectoral interventions are integrated into other public health areas as well as non-health activities. This position will coordinate the application of the Agency Youth Policy to FP/RH work.
